A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE DIOCESE OF GAYLORD

The Diocese of Gaylord is one of seven Roman Catholic Dioceses in the state of Michigan. The Diocese of Gaylord was established on July 20, 1971 by His Holiness Pope Paul VI.

Saint Mary Parish in Gaylord, which had been established in 1883 as a tiny church for immigrants and lumbermen, became the cathedral in the smallest See City in the United States.

With the creation of a new diocese and a growing population, a new cathedral was constructed to serve the parishioners of Saint Mary Parish and the Diocese of Gaylord. The groundbreaking for the new cathedral took place in 1975, and the contemporary $1.6 million cathedral was dedicated on July 25, 1976.

The 11,171 square miles of the diocese is comprised of territory which had previously been a part of the dioceses of Saginaw and Grand Rapids. The area includes the 21 most northern counties of Michigan's lower peninsula, which are mostly rural in nature. Total population of the area exceeds 510,532, of which more than 44,000 are Catholic.

Within the diocese's boundaries today, there are 75 parishes, 17 Catholic schools and many closely related institutions. All of our clergy, religious sisters and brothers, and laity have been called through Baptism to be disciples and to reflect the message of the Gospel.

Together, we reflect on the past with thanksgiving, and we look to the future with confident hope.
